DISTRICT ATTORNEY

1500 Sansom Street, 4th Floor | Philadelphia, PA 19102 | 1-888-Seth4DA

April 27, 2009

Today, the Philadelphia Inquirer endorsed me for Philadelphia District Attorney, and I couldn't be more proud. Though I've been talking to voters for weeks, I couldn't have described my vision any better than the Inquirer did this morning:

“Williams has the know-how to improve the D.A.’s office and a good grasp of strategies to make neighborhoods safer places to live. He would attack the prevalence of guns in the city with a ‘holistic’ approach, including more aggressive targeting of illegal straw purchasers and working with community groups to dissuade young men from the gun culture... A fair and impartial D.A. with good ethics is needed. Among this deep field, the best candidate is Seth Williams.”

As proud of this endorsement as I am – and proud of all the endorsements I have received – their support means little without yours.

We only have 23 days until the election, and I need your help more than ever.

Since I announced my campaign last year, I've visited every neighborhood in the city, attended countless forums and community events and met as many voters as I possibly could.

I'm determined to work hard for the vote of every Philadelphia, but I can't do it alone.

Please consider making a contribution or volunteering your time to my campaign. Campaigns are won by generous donations and hardworking volunteers, which is why I need your help.

The Inquirer rightly said that the race for District Attorney is a key race, and that it may be decided by a light turnout.

I want to prove them wrong. I want to make sure that every voter who cares about the safety of their neighborhood goes to the polls on May 19th. And I want to win every one of their votes.

Thank you again for your continued support!

Sincerely,

Seth
