PHILADELPHIA: State Representative Babette Josephs added her name to the growing list of Seth Williams' supporters today when she endorsed his candidacy for Philadelphia District Attorney. The lawmaker, who represents parts of Washington Square, Center City, Bella Vista and Gray's Ferry, declared Seth her choice for the office of the District Attorney, citing his extensive experience and dedication to reform.

"I am honored to receive the support of Representative Josephs," Seth said. "She has fought tirelessly for laws that make our communities safer places to live, work and raise a family."

Earlier this year, 12 state lawmakers gathered at a press conference in City Hall to endorse Seth. Those who declared their support included:

- State Representative Ronald G. Waters
- State Representative Rosita C. Youngblood

“I have long promoted responsible gun control laws, increased funding for neighborhood town watch groups and alternative sentencing for young non-violent offenders,” Josephs said. “Seth and I both understand what needs to be done to rid our streets of crime, and I look forward to working closely with him.”

Seth has also received the backing of more than a dozen former Assistant District Attorneys, the Drexel University and University of Pennsylvania Democrats, the Fraternal Order of Public Housing Authority Police and the Transportation Workers Union, Local 234.
