SETH WILLIAMS LAUNCHES SOCIAL NETWORKING CAMPAIGN

Candidate for Philadelphia District Attorney Looking Forward to Connecting with Supporters Through Social Networking Sites

PHILADELPHIA, PA: Seth Williams, candidate for Philadelphia District Attorney, launched his official Internet campaign today using MySpace, Facebook, YouTube and Twitter. Seth hopes his online presence will help him connect with his supporters and encourage an open dialogue with Philadelphia voters.

“I am excited to launch my Internet campaign,” Seth remarked. “The more avenues through which I can connect with my supporters, the better. I hope that by utilizing these social networking sites I can make myself more available to the voters of Philadelphia. I want them to know that every door to my campaign is open, whether it be through a phone call, a letter or a Facebook message.”

Seth announced his candidacy for Philadelphia District Attorney after a lifetime of service to his community. In his roles as Assistant District Attorney, Inspector General and community leader, Seth has shown his dedication to Philadelphia and exhibited the experience needed to make Philadelphia a safe place to live, work and raise a family.

As District Attorney, Seth will work with law enforcement, the courts and the community to reduce gun violence. He will also reform the District Attorney's Office through community-based prosecution and work with every Philadelphian to make sure that they have the tools to reclaim their neighborhoods and keep their families safe.

MySpace, Facebook, YouTube and Twitter are Internet social networking communities that allows users to keep in touch with their family, friends and coworkers. Seth first became interested in using social networking sites after President-elect Barack Obama's campaign used social networking to encourage younger voters to become more politically involved.

Seth Williams, the City's former Inspector General, has 10 years of experience as a top prosecutor and supervisor in Philadelphia's District Attorney's Office. For more information, please visit his campaign website at www.votesethwilliams.com.
